Stimson and the Arms Program

Secretary of War Stimson testified before a committee of congress Friday that because of the uncertainty over tax policies in private business the government had been able to get under contract only 33 out of 4,000 contemplated airplanes for the national defense program. This spells trouble for the United States unless there is instant and drastic action in high government circles.

DeAnn Turns Out for Stump Tour There on Thursday

Claude Burke Presides as Meeting Chairman

FAMOUS BANQUET

Our Correspondent Raves Over Food at DeAnn

Bingen, Friday, August 9
Hope, Monday, August 12

By J. T. BOWDEN, JR.

As the 1940 county political stump tour neared its close Thursday, the people of DeAnn and Garland township played host to the office-seekers. Claude Burke served as chairman.

It was at noon that the little community, nine miles north of Hope, really displayed the hospitality for which the South is famous. When the morning session was ended the ladies began to spread food from large boxes and baskets upon the table under the trees beside the Methodist church. When they were through good things to eat, the varieties and kinds of which are too numerous to mention, were spread over an area three feet wide and 100 feet long. The Rev. Leroy Samuels returned. Thanks and the crowd, which was large, fell to. It goes without saying that everyone did a marvelous job on the delicious eats.

The concession stand was sponsored by the DeAnn singing school which closes Friday night with a concert. The public is invited and there will not be any admission charge.

Morning Program

Speakers during the morning session were those seeking the treasurer's, county judge's and representative post No. 1 offices.

Oren Harris, of El Dorado, candidate for congress, was on the grounds and was called to the microphone shortly before the meeting adjourned for noon.

After talking about five minutes in behalf of his candidacy, Mr. Harris introduced Jimmie Branch, of Camden, who goes with the candidate as an entertainer. Mr. Branch then, for about ten minutes, put on a show for the crowd with imitations. The circuit clerk candidates were the first to speak after dinner. Short excerpts from what they had to say follow.

Cecil Weaver: "I want to thank you in advance for your support and your vote on August 13. I promise you that Cecil Weaver will know you the same after he is elected just as he does before."

Arthur C. Anderson: "I believe that I gave you good, faithful, courteous service when I was your county clerk. I can give you the same service in the circuit clerk's office and I want to thank you in advance for your vote."

Elmer Brown: "When I ran for this office before, you said that I was too young. I have waited and this time a lot of you tell me, 'we are going to put you in.' I will always be grateful for your vote of confidence."

J. P. "Pinkie" Byers: "I have always been told that when you go to DeAnn that those people give you everything and ask for nothing. That fine dinner proves it. I am asking that you promote me from deputy clerk to circuit clerk by your vote on next Tuesday."

The Unopposed
Sheriff Clarence Baker and Assessor Dewey Hendrix next made short "thanks" speeches for the confidence the people showed by their not having any opposition on their second terms.

Last group of the afternoon was the representative post No. 2.

Following the conclusion of the county candidates speaking John Timberlake, long time resident of DeAnn, made a short but vigorous speech denouncing Carl E. Bailey, candidate for re-election as governor.

The office aspirants Friday are making their last road appearance at Bingen in Mine Creek township in the extreme north end of the county. The last speaking of the present campaign will be an all-day rally in Hope on Monday.

Tax Uncertainty Delaying Defense Stimson Asserts

Only 33 of 4,000 Planes Actually Under Contract

TALK TO CONGRESS

War Secretary and Assistant Put on Stand

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of War Stimson and Lewis Compton, assistant secretary of the navy, told a congressional committee Friday that profit limitations and business uncertainty over tax legislation had delayed production of airplanes, guns, ships and other vital items of the defense program.

Stimson testified that the army had been able to sign contracts for only 33 of 4,000 planes appropriated for during June, "chiefly" because of uncertainties over tax legislation.

The two testified with regard to the excess profits tax.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Thurman Arnold, assistant U. S. Attorney General, Friday declared a special federal evidence tending to show patents vital to the United States' war industries are German-controlled.

Arnold made the statement in discussing the grand jury's investigation of charges that production had been restricted and prices fixed in some of the country's war industries.

Guard Statement

HYDE PARK — (AP) — President Roosevelt said at a press conference Friday that betting odds were 100 to 1 that the National Guard would never have to go outside the limits of the United States or its possessions in peace-time.

He made this statement when discussing an amendment that was debated before the senate passed the bill permitting him to call out the guard and organize the reserves for federal training, which would have limited service to the continental United States and American possessions.

Cudahy Rebuked

WASHINGTON — (AP) — John Cudahy, American ambassador to Belgium, was reprimanded publicly by the State Department Friday for a press interview in London on Belgian food conditions, and other aspects of the German occupation of that country.

Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, leading a formal statement at the press conference, said Cudahy, by direction of President Roosevelt has been requested to return to the United States immediately for consultation.

Winds and Rain Give Much Relief to Heat

The Fruit & Truck Branch Experiment Station reported an 82-degree temperature, and rainfall of .55 inches, Friday morning.

Strong winds have given much relief from heat during the past week and rainfall that began Thursday night has dropped the mercury considerably.

The weather bureau forecasts continued showers Friday night and Saturday.

60 German Planes Downed by British

Claim One-Seventh of Attackers Destroyed

LONDON — (AP) — Germany paid with the loss of at least 60 planes in Thursday's wholesale aerial assaults on British shores and shipping, the air ministry reported Friday as Nazi air attacks continued.

In all, the ministry said, 60 planes were destroyed, and "many others damaged"—a toll of about one in seven of "some 400" Nazi raiders it counted in the raids—in the greatest attack in British history.

Meanwhile, the war office announced that "British troops at present stationed at Shanghai and North China were being withdrawn for service elsewhere."

British quarters refused to amplify the statement.

Battle in Africa

CAIRO — (AP) — The Italians in British Somaliland pressed an advance toward Berbera, capital and principal port, the British admitted Friday as they claimed a smashing victory in the biggest air battle in the African war in Libya.

The communiqué said that Italian columns of motorized troops were marching through the barren rock hill roads toward the coast which they aim to seize for an Ethiopian outlet on the Gulf of Aden and the Indian Ocean.

"The middle eastern command here said that 15 Italian planes were destroyed when the British force, outnumbered two to one, fought over Italian Libya."

Mitchell and Bryson Continue Fierce Debate in Nevada Co.

Refunding Issue and Legislative Records Discussed at Bluff City Meeting

By WAYNE JARVIS
The Nevada County stump tour drew toward the close Thursday night when the candidates spoke at Bluff City. This leaves only two more speaking dates, the campaign closing at Prescott Monday.

In spite of the bad weather and the mist of rain a large crowd attended at Bluff City.

The candidates for sheriff, Ed Cottingham, John A. Jarvis, Barton Saunders, Curtis Ward, and R. L. Vandiver made short speeches, as did also the clerks, Hodie Butler, Jesse Baker, Brad Dewoodey, and Buck Young. All nine of these boys stated briefly what they would do if elected.

The speeches of Lawrence Mitchell and Edward Bryson, candidates for state senator, follow:

Lawrence Mitchell: "I hope we will never act like the people of Louisiana and Mexico who wallow in the mud and mire. I came into the senate 10 years ago during the heart of the depression. Every bank in the U. S. was closed."

Ed Cottingham: "I am asking that you promote me from deputy clerk to circuit clerk by your vote on next Tuesday."

The Unopposed
Sheriff Clarence Baker and Assessor Dewey Hendrix next made short "thanks" speeches for the confidence the people showed by their not having any opposition on their second terms.

Last group of the afternoon was the representative post No. 2.

Following the conclusion of the county candidates speaking John Timberlake, long time resident of DeAnn, made a short but vigorous speech denouncing Carl E. Bailey, candidate for re-election as governor.

The office aspirants Friday are making their last road appearance at Bingen in Mine Creek township in the extreme north end of the county. The last speaking of the present campaign will be an all-day rally in Hope on Monday.

The Americas March Together

By the Act of Havana, the 21 free nations of the New World unanimously agree that no part of that world is to be the pawn of power politics in other continents. Practical means of preventing it are set up.

This is the Monroe Doctrine glorified. What the United States once proclaimed as its own policy is now the united policy of all 21 American nations. Machinery is provided to make it stick. The result of the Havana conference is greater and better than many hoped.

A light has been raised in a dark world. A dam has been built to halt the spread of totalitarianism.

In no other part of the world would such a meeting be possible. No other great power would do what the United States has done—deliberately forgo to use its power to coerce its neighbors, yet win them by patient argument and reason to its point of view.

The Havana agreement is a triumph of reason and decency in a world which has been bowing to force alone. Let no one think, however, that this settles the whole matter. Comment in European newspapers already shows that American unity infuriates the totalitarians. The German, Italian, Spanish, and Japanese efforts to gain political influence in South America will be redoubled.

But abandonment of the grandiose cartel scheme removes the slightest legitimate objection that Europe might make to American unity.

The American countries will trade with all, but they will insist on trading on equal terms, with no special advantages to any, and no privileged political positions swapped for a boatload of wheat, beef, or copper.

Havana marks a beginning, not an ending. Let there be no delusions. Having set up the rules, we must all play the game. The United States once set up a light before the world, wrote a set of rules—the League of Nations. Then it refused to play. This time it must play out the game.

As Leopoldo Melo, the Argentinian delegate, said at Havana, "We all made concessions." We must all make them in future if we are to weld the Americas all the more firmly together. No change of administration, no change

Both parties are presumably in favor of developing Pan Americanism. It would be nationally serviceable for the opposition party to place itself squarely behind the Act of Havana, assuring our sister republics that this phase at least of America foreign relations is beyond either personality or party.

Artificial Skin For Surgery
Uses Made of Rubber

All is not rubber that bounces, for in these days of chemical experiment, what looks like the real thing may easily turn out to be synthetic. Conversely, there are many things manufactured of rubber today that do not resemble the product at all. Artificial skin, for instance, is being made of rubber. Patients in surgical clinics who have lost noses or ears may now have new ones made of latex, colored to resemble perfectly the natural features.

These may be used either permanently, like false teeth, or until the patient's face is repaired with plastic surgery. Rubber noses and ears should sell well to pugilists who spend most of their time bouncing on the canvas.

Plofilm, the rubber sheeting, is now used as a waterproof lining for bags, as a protective cover for blankets and clothing. It will soon be serv-

Rubber Putty may soon hold your window panes in place. The substance is said to retain its softness and elasticity under most severe weather conditions and to adhere firmly to glass, steel or wood.

Bearings made of soft rubber, when lubricated merely with water, are found to have almost as low a coefficient of friction on a drive shaft as steel ball bearings. Scientists got the idea by observing how a rubber heel will skid on a wet sidewalk.

Rubber fenders for automobiles would be soothing to traffic tempers. Now being manufactured only for trucks and busses, they may some day become standard equipment on passenger cars. They are both dent-proof and scratch-proof, and think how the pedestrians would bounce!

Bullet-resistant inner tubes are the latest things in tires. These self-sealing tubes have been designed for the U. S. Army and are believed far superior to anything of similar design now possessed by a foreign army.

White neoprene gloves, of the type formerly made only in black, are now available to dairies, bakeries and food packing plants that prefer such accessories in light color. These gloves are colorless, non-toxic, and resistant to oils, greases, acids and cleaning compounds.

Non-skid paint has been developed with rubber as a base. It is used for dairies, garages, shower rooms, slippery stairs, and the like, and can be applied to either wood or concrete. The paint is available in four colors.

Last note in neckwear is the specially designed hot water bottle, shaped to fit snugly around the throat.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it good manners to point out a move to a person playing solitaire if you stop to look over his shoulder and see a move he has overlooked?

2. Must every guest at a party be introduced to the guest of honor?

3. When a man and woman are having breakfast or lunch together in a restaurant should the man read a newspaper?

4. Usually is it cheaper to order a meal table d'hôte or a la carte?

5. What is a cover charge?

What would you do if—
You are a woman wearing an old dress and someone tells you how nice you look in it—

(a) Say "Thank you?"

(b) Say "What, this old dress? I've had it for years?"

Answers

1. No. The charm of solitaire is that one plays it alone.

2. Yes, with the exception of those who already know the guest of honor.

3. No. Not even if they are husband and wife.

4. Table d'hôte.

5. A charge made by some restaurants in addition to the cost of the food order.

A young woman and a handsome farm lad were walking along a country road together in the evening. The farm lad was carrying a large pail on his back, holding a chicken in one hand, a cane in the other, and leading a goat. They came to a dark lane.

Said the girl: "I'm afraid to walk here with you. You might try to kiss me."

Said the farm lad: "How could I with all these things I'm carrying?"

"Well, you might stick the cane in the ground, tie the goat to it, and put the chicken under the pail?"

SERIAL STORY SUMMER THEATER

BY MILDRED WILLIAMS

COPYRIGHT, 1940.
NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY, Molly has gone driving with her mother when Johnny gets up, so he spends the day with Jean. Jean suggests that Molly come to the house to get her things. Molly returns with a signed contract. When Johnny demands the money, she remembers that she left it in the dressing room.

CHAPTER XI

JOHNNY REGAN could hardly believe what Molly Travers was saying.

"You just remembered that you left the money in the dressing room!" he repeated after her. "How could you forget it if it meant as much to you as you said it did?"

Molly reached over and put her hand on his arm as if trying to quiet him. "Don't be cross, Johnny. I've been afraid to tell you. That's why I went off to Dennis, I guess."

Johnny lifted her hand away. He didn't want to be confused by any contact with her. He wanted to think clearly.

"Am I to take that as meaning you were just putting on an act? You've known for some time that the money was lost?" He was almost shouting.

Molly began to weep softly. "Oh, Johnny, you make me feel perfectly terrible. I'll buy anything, or pay for it, I'll have a job, and I'll work awfully hard."

She came to him, put her arms around him in a gesture he knew so well. He threw her away from him, and buried his face in his hands.

"And Jean had decided to give it to us for a wedding gift," he said to himself rather than to her. "Why, Johnny, why didn't you say so?" Molly exclaimed happily. "Then it was mine all the time. That makes it all right, can't you see?"

That was Molly's reasoning, all right. She was so damnably logical when it came to seeing things her way.

"She need never know it's lost. I'll thank her for it, and she won't see it any more. Why, nobody ever complains when you lose something that's your own."

She hurried on, trying to make him understand.

"It wasn't yours when you lost it, and I'd planned to give it back anyway. You were supposed to be marrying me, not the money. And now that the marriage is postponed, you'll have to tell Jean Reynolds right away that you've lost the most valuable piece of jewelry you ever laid your hands on."

Molly drew herself up to her full height. She was ice, hard and frozen ice. Her voice chilled Johnny.

Mitchell and

I have served in seven sessions of the senate, five special and two regular sessions. During my term I was not absent a single time. This isn't a money-making job at all. I would make more money by staying in my office.

"This state now owes 137 million dollars, the biggest per capita highway debt of any state in the Union. If we ever get a fair refunding bill there will be a mad scramble to get the money that will then be available. We are 19 million dollars short in southwest Arkansas. I think we should have our part of this. We have more people, we ship more freight, than any of the others. We could pave the roads in this county if we were treated fairly.

"The bill written in 1934 is not the best bill in the world. I agree to that fact. Bryson says our creditors won't let us lower our gasoline tax. They have freed the toll bridges. How did they do that? The refunding bill was responsible for that. It has paid thirty million dollars on our debt. There is a paragraph in the bill that says the gasoline tax cannot be reduced until the income reaches 15 million dollars and stays there for three years. That is in Bryson's bill. I think the tax on gasoline and licenses should be lowered. I helped put part of the tax there. We are now paying 8 1/2¢ gasoline tax including federal taxes. This was supposed to be lowered when the income from the tax reached ten million dollars. It is now fourteen million and has not been reduced yet. It is not fair to you and to me.

"Bryson cast the first liquor vote that had been cast in Nevada county since around 1871. You know I won't do that. I did not do that when I was there.

"When Rozell of Pulaski county provided an amendment that the textbooks could not be sold to the people of Arkansas for higher prices than they were being sold for in any other state, Bryson withdrew his textbook bill and I have it here, the original bill. He was trying to pass this bill to help the big book companies. No other state in the Union has free high school text books and only six states have tried it.

"He never did tell you why he withdrew his bill when they amended it. He says I am jealous of him because he was called the Speaker of the House. He lacked one vote of getting any for that office. No one ever nominated him. He says I have a brother in the courthouse and other relatives working. Bryson, you had an uncle on the toll bridge at Fulton. You have a brother on the payroll. You have a cousin at Little Rock, too. My brother ran for his in Chicago.

—O—
Miss Mary Ruth Meill had returned to her home in Magnolia after a week's visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Hart, and Miss Rosa Lee Bolls.

"I said our marriage was 'postponed.' If I explain everything to Jean Reynolds it's indefinitely postponed. Do you understand?"

"You'll explain. I'm not going to get you out of this jam. He spoke evenly as he always did when really angry. "As for our marriage. Something tells me that was about as empty a promise as all the rest of your pretenses."

He turned away from her and went down the walk. He had to think. He must tell Jean the truth. He knew Molly didn't intend to.

Molly called after him, but he didn't answer. He heard her laugh softly, as if to say, "He'll be back." The screen door slammed after her.

HALFWAY up Rutherford street toward the Meltons', another idea struck Johnny. Why not go down to the theater and look around? The cameo might be repaired, if he could find it.

Johnny threaded his way carefully through the ruins until he found the charred skeleton of a staircase. The acrid smell of wet, burned timber stung his nostrils. He jumped down into the basement.

He recognized Molly Travers' dressing room without difficulty. Mrs. Lyons' gray muslin, scorched a little, lay under two fallen beams. He knelt down and examined the dress carefully. Even the black jet buttons were intact, he noticed exultantly.

But the cameo was not there. His hands trembled as he searched the neck of the dress. Suppose someone had taken it! Perhaps Molly was mistaken when she said the cameo was on the dress.

Johnny found the dressing table, overturned and half hidden by charred piles. He opened one of the drawers. A make-up kit was there, the sticks unsmiled, the little plaits of hair unsmiled. But there was no cameo.

He found Molly's purse, with 60 cents in small change. If anybody had robbed the dressing room, money would have disappeared first.

Had Molly lied to him?

HE must know before he told Jean. He stuffed her pocket-book in his blouse, and for the third time that day found himself at 43 Cottage street asking for Miss Travers.

"I thought you'd come back and apologize," Molly said when she saw him. "I'm terribly hurt that you'd think so badly of me."

"How about your conscience? Was it hurt enough to call Jean?"

"Oh, darling," Molly was exasperated, "you're still mad, aren't you? I don't think it's necessary to tell her since she's given the brooch to us. If you think she has to know, you ought to tell her yourself."

"That's your story and you're sticking to it," Johnny said calmly. "But I've been down to the theater . . ."

Molly interrupted with laughter. "Which theater? Ours burned last night."

"Ever hear of a fire sale?" Johnny asked. "Salvaged goods?"

"What are you talking about, Johnny Regan?" Johnny now thought he detected alarm in her tone. "You didn't have a monopoly on any salvaging, you know, if any was done. Those Portuguese . . ."

But Johnny was ready for her. "They'd have taken this first, don't you think?" He threw the purse in her lap.

Johnny waited for her to reply, but silence hung between them like a screen. "If you haven't anything to say, I'm going to Jean Reynolds and tell her what has happened. Unless you tell the truth, I'll believe you gave the cameo to Masters in exchange for that contract."

Molly stared at him incredulously. Then she began to sob. "Oh, Johnny, you make me sound like a thief. And I didn't mean to be, really I didn't. I knew Jean would give you the cameo and that it was ours. Masters is nuts about old jewelry, and it seemed so simple. . . . And now that I have the contract, I can pay her for it, really I can."

Johnny looked at her. She wasn't acting now! She was scared. She clung to him, sobbing. "What will they do to me, Johnny? What will they do? Please don't leave me! I didn't realize what I was doing, can't you see I didn't?"

Johnny believed her. He felt sorry for her, but beyond that, he had no desire to help her. What love he had felt for her had been stripped from him. He was no longer under her spell.

"I'm going back to Jean," Johnny said quietly. "If you don't tell her the truth, I'm going to. What happens to you is entirely up to her. Personally, I don't care."

He ran up the street to the Meltons'. As he rushed into the house, he collided with Andre Masters.

"What are you doing here?" Johnny demanded.

But Masters didn't answer. Johnny saw him go toward Cottage street. Was he going to have it out with Molly, too?

Little Rock Loses Eleventh Straight

Nashville Strengthens Its Grip on First Place

Nashville reinforced its league leadership and Little Rock strengthened its grip on the basement occupancy as the Vols whipped the Travelers 3 to 0, at Travelers Field Thursday night. It was a clean sweep of the series for the men of Larry Gilbert an dthe 11th straight loss for Herbie Brett's boys.

Cletus ("Boots") Poffenberger went the route for the Southern Association pace-setters but he tired noticeably in the late innings. The right-handed Vol fatty yielded only one hit through the first five innings but wobbled there-after. However, Poff could afford to loaf behind a commanding lead.

The Gilberts ground out three runs in the first inning, rushing left-handed Wilfred LeFebvre to the washroom before side was retired. Paul Simmons, a right-hander who has been on the pay roll a number of weeks but who only pitched three innings during that tenure, came to the rescue.

Singing at Spring Hill at 2:30 Sunday

There will be a singing at the Baptist church in Spring Hill at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. All are invited.

The person had been strolling about the links, and wishing to drive home a small moral lesson said mildly, "I notice that the players who get the lowest scores are not those who sweat."

"Why the Hell should they?" replied the golfer as he dug up some more turf.

Man Himself, Not God, Responsible For World of Destruction and Grief
Text: Psalm 19

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of Advance

Man lives in a wonderful world. The stars heavens have always challenged his imagination and interest, and the beauties of the earth have stirred an emotional response that has given to us our richest poetical literature.

Among the noblest of these responses to the immensity, glory, and beauty of the universe is the 19th Psalm. As the Psalm says concerning the heavens which declare the glory of God and the firmament which shows His handiwork, "There is no speech nor language; their voice is not heard."

Nevertheless, poets like himself have given voices to these wonders of nature, which speak a language of the soul that is no less real because it is not in words. The music of creation is suggested in the passage, "Their line is gone out through all the earth," for the reference seems to be to a line, or chord, that is struck in man.

The universe is not merely one of immensity and beauty; it is a moral universe, related to the law of its Creator. How different is this song of creation and of the world in which we live from the voice of atheism that finds nothing in the universe of spiritual law and order, nothing that corresponds to man's own free spirit.

The sensitive poets and prophets of Israel manifested their faith and their courage in linking man with the Creator. They saw a universe not only upheld by physical law, but a universe in which there is moral law, a universe in which integrity and happiness of human life are based upon precepts and commandments. In times such as these in which we live, in which scientific progress, human ingenuity, and human action and endurance are so extensively turned to ways of violence and destruction, one cannot help contrasting the world in which God has placed man with what man has done to that world and to himself.

How rich human life might be if, instead of greed and lust and false ambition, men had been willing to enjoy this world and to share all its good things with their fellows! The inventive genius that we have turned to war and violence would have been sufficient to provide enough food and clothing and good habitation for everyone.

If even a small part of the efficient organization that men have created for military ends had been used to organize the life of mankind for peace and for mutual helpfulness, what wonderful changes in the structure and organization of society might have been accomplished!

When we are tempted to feel that God has deserted His world, or when we say, "Why doesn't God stop the carnage?" do we consider how man has brought upon himself the horrors of today?

It is not God, but man, who is responsible for the failure of a world in the grip of war. How can we get back into the spirit of the Hebrew prophets and poets? They are good guides to a new life for man and for society.

Weather Bureau May Aid Defense

Five Day Forecasts to Be Released Here Soon

By JJAC KSTINNETT

WASHINGTON — Over at the Weather Bureau they are starting to look beyond the ends of their noses. I thought at first they were just searching for a break in the heat wave.

But Commander F. W. Reichelderfer, chief of the U. S. Weather Bureau, says that isn't so. It's just the beginning of longer-range forecasting at which the bureau has been shelling for a long time. And, incidentally, it's part of the program to put the weather in the first column of national defense.

Within a few days, the bureau will start making forecasts for five days. They are going to try to get away from the vague generalities and great areas of coverage of the old weekly forecasts and try to narrow it to specific localities and fairly definite predictions. For several weeks, the forecasts will be experimental, but after that they will be made public.

Weather As Defense Aid

Maybe it's the beginning of a new day . . . when sports promoters can cut out that disappointing system of handing out rain checks . . . when Aunt Minnie can plan the week-end picnic without running outdoors every few minutes to search for a cloud.

More important, it may be the beginning of a day when the United States army and navy and air forces can plan defenses several days in advance with some certainty as to whether the weather will be with us or agin us.

When it comes to putting the weather in the defense ranks, the bureau couldn't do better than have Commander Reichelderfer at the barometer. He has spent more than half his 44 years as an ace meteorologist in the navy's weather service and is the nation's foremost authority on aviation weather. He's an airplane, airship and balloon pilot; was meteorologist on the famous old navy dirigible Los Angeles and for a time was meteorological observer on the Hindenburg. It is under his direction that the Atlantic forecasting service has been brought to its present efficiency.

Army and Navy Help
Of course, the federal weather bureau isn't the only one that contributes to weather in defense. The army is moving its meteorological school to Chanute Field, Ill., and increasing the number of students in the air corps' courses.

The navy uses the California Institute of Technology for instruction courses and is increasing the number of its students.

The increasing importance of air force in warfare is, of course, one of the principal reasons for the increasing importance of weather . . . but that isn't all.

In defense of a country like the United States, everything would depend on mobility of defense forces . . . and mobility depends on co-ordination of all branches. If an unforeseen fog whips in, or unexpected rains or gales plague a mobile army it may result in a disastrous mess.

What held the Russians in their attack on Finland? The coldest winter in years. What defeated Poland in 1-2-3 order? The absence of those rains that usually turn the country into a bog. What was the only factor that gave Hitler's armies pause in their lightning thrust to the channel and into France? The days of rain and bad weather.

Why, now, are military technicians wondering why Hitler delayed his attack on England? Because they know that the fogs roll down from the North Sea in increasing numbers as August wanes and that by November the British Isles will be blanketed 40 to 70 per cent of the time. Are there other factors more important than the weather or is it that German meteorologists know that the fogs, like the rains of Poland, will be late this year?

Patriotic Song Is Written in 1918

"God Bless America" Stored in Berlin's Mind

By TOM WOLF

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — "God Bless America" was written in 1918!

The 32 bars which set America to music originally were composed for an American army musical ("Yip! Yip! Yaphank!") by an unilitary looking sergeant named Irving Berlin. But they weren't heard until 1938.

Since then they have become America's theme song, if not as many believe, its new national anthem.

Here is the story as the composer revealed it to me:

"I was never completely satisfied with the words or melody as they stood in 1918," said Berlin. He sat at a large mahogany desk in his paneled office in the heart of present-day Tin Pan Alley—the Tin Pan Alley that Irving Berlin has done so much to create.

Salted away, not in any trunk, but in the back of Berlin's literally tune-full mind along with hundreds of other song fragments, "God Bless America" passed 20 half-forgotten years.

Then in September, 1938, Berlin went to London for the premier of "Alexander's Ragtime Band," the tune biography of Irving Berlin.

"It was during the Munich crisis," he recalls and everyone there, myself included, was pretty emotional. I wanted to write something that would say, 'Thanks, America.' I played around with that as a title, but it didn't quite work out."

Wary At First
When he returned to New York, still thinking along these lines, songbird Kate Smith asked him to write a song for her Armistice Day radio program.

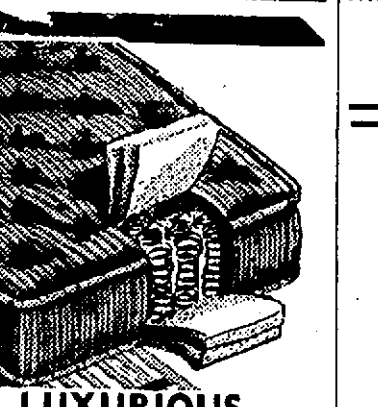

He naturally thought back to the war, "Yip! Yip! Yaphank!"—to "God Bless America."

"You see in the original version I had the line 'Make her victorious on land and foam,'" Berlin strode across his office to the battered upright piano.

His fingers quickly picked out the old melody. It ran way up the scale to a different high, Berlin sang in a half-spoken whisper.

"You see," he smiled, wrinkling his forehead above his black, horn-rimmed glasses, "it wasn't right. And 'Make her victorious' wasn't appropriate in 1938. So . . ." His fingers rippled over the keys again, with the version Kate Smith introduced to America on Armistice Day, 1938.

The song sparked American imagination and patriotism immediately. But Berlin was wary. "I was grateful beyond words that it had the quality it seemed to have, but I wanted to make sure it kept that tempered steel springs, covered top and bottom with heavy layer cotton, deeply tufted and encased in hospital stripe ticking of durable quality—a wonder at our price.

$12.95 up
Hope Hardware Co.

quality."

So the lyrics were copyrighted against use by commercial radio programs (except Kate Smith's, whose theme song it became), by all swing arrangers, by all cabarets and night clubs.

All patriotic organizations are welcome to the song, and both Republican and Democratic conventions adopted it as their theme.

Berlin continued: "I've thought it was so obviously an American song that the royalties should go to our youth organizations."

A committee was established and decided to give the profits to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

The fund has netted $45,000 on the 500,000 copies of sheet music sold to date. That looks like a drop in the eventual bucket.

Is "God Bless America" a new national anthem?

"I know you don't sit down and write one. The people adopt a song, or they don't. I think that 'God Bless America' is the most important song I've ever written. I'll tell you more about it in five years."

EVERYBODY knows that Bailey and his Third Termies are spending the biggest campaign fund in Arkansas history in their grab for another two years of power and one more chance at their infamous $137,000,000.00 refunding deal.

And it's also Common Knowledge that a good part of this cost, (including $500.00 a night to shoot up fireworks) is being paid by the taxpayers themselves through Bailey's 3% tax on this year's pay checks of state employees whose salaries are paid by you and me.

But Bailey's campaign blowouts are only a small part of the thousands of dollars that Boss Rule daily extorts from the people of Arkansas.

In every school there's a huge cost because Bailey and his Text Book Commission bought English books before they were written and contracted for texts wholesale at $8,000 more than the price of the books retail in Alabama.

Every cotton farmer PAYS because Bailey defied the AAA, withdrew State Farms from the National Program, and overplanted 2,900 acres of cotton. Had every farmer jumped his production in the same ratio 17 million MORE acres would have been planted to cotton and a 5c price would have been the result. What a price for one man's stubborn vanity!

Even the penitentiary farms will pay for Bailey's AAA Blunder. The Dept. of Agriculture refused his request to modify their ruling and a $15.00 fine will be assessed on every state farm bale grown outside the AAA before it can be offered for sale.

Children yet unborn will pay if Bailey's Bond Refunding scheme should go through. He seeks to saddle a mortgage on the state's future income that can't be adjusted for 36 years and has the audacity to refuse to reveal what interest rate the refunding bonds would bear. Difference of 1/2 of 1% on the $137,000,000.00 debt means nearly $1,000,000.00 a year in added interest. That's the high cost of Bailey's secret deal with Wall Street bankers.

Can Arkansas afford costs like these? When schools everywhere run on short terms and are forced to charge tuition, when welfare payments are lowest in the nation, when citizens face the heaviest tax yoke in history, shall our people be forced longer to pay tribute to extravagance and graft?

Examples in Service No. 3

Maintaining the state's economy on a sound basis is the finest service that can be rendered by a governor who recognizes that managing the state's affairs is a business rather than a political problem. . . . Under Governor Bailey's administration, the credit of the State of Arkansas has been fully restored, its debts have been reduced, and all departments and agencies have been operated within their budgets. A sound economical structure within the government is reflected in an improved economy in private business.

To the Voters of Nevada County:-

Thanks for your support four years ago. With three opponents in the race I only lost three city boxes in the county. Due to unavoidable circumstances, it has been necessary for me to devote most of my time to the office. However, you remember that eight years ago, I made a house to house canvass on horseback. Four years ago I canvassed again.

Due to false reports in regard to indefinite camp, I thought it best to obtain my honorable discharge from the Arkansas National Guard, after 16 years service.

I was and am in favor of the Speaking dates.

First, I thought the General Public Expected them.

Second, I knew I could not visit every home in the County.

I promise if elected to enforce the law, collect the taxes without fear or favor, and have the help of capable and efficient deputies.

So why not follow the voters unbroken Custom and elect me your next Sheriff and Collector for Nevada County. You know my record. Am I entitled to this promotion? Your friend,

HOMER ADKINS For Governor

"Restore the State Government to the People"

Backed by years of service as Pulaski County sheriff, Little Rock city official and Collector of Internal Revenue, Homer Adkins has proved to thousands of Arkansians citizens that to his "Public Office Is a Public Trust." A courageous fighter for right, he states in every campaign address that he will refund state debt with CALLABLE Bonds, at not more than 3%, because he will take no toll to further his own selfish political ambitions. By economy and strict collection of all taxes due, with no favorites escaping payment, enough money can be raised to improve school conditions and increase payments to Old Age pensioners, removing from Arkansas the stigma of being lowest in the nation in this kind of aid.
